

Attention ©Ashley McMillen

Feeling so alone, it's not fair
Because there's too much love in this world.
If you could see past your narrow looking glass
You will find, in time.

Life's much better when you have a friend to lean on.
What's the point of loving if you bite the hand that feeds you tonight?

Give me some attention, show me that you want me
Listen to all the stories I tell.
Show me some affection, hold me in the evening
That's what life is all about.

Don't hide yourself away from the world
Just forgive yourself and move on
If you could let go of all that pain in your soul
You will find, in time.

Life's much better when you have a friend to lean on.
What's the point of loving if you bite the hand that feeds you tonight?

CHORUS

And in the end when the stars tell all their secrets
There will be no doubt.
Just find comfort knowing I know
What you're really all about.

Life's much better when you have a friend to lean on.
What's the point of loving if you bite the hand that feeds you tonight?

CHORUS

Show me some attention
Show me some attention
Show me some attention
Show me some attention